Interview with Amit Brook, Our School Tour Guide
by Ron Silver

Ron: Amit, why did you become a tour guide?
Amit: When I was young, I loved school trips. I loved going on long walks and listening to the stories that the guides told us. Also, I like working with teenagers. They are lots of fun and full of surprises!

Ron: How do you plan your trips?
Amit: I ask the teachers what the pupils are learning at school in history or geography. I also ask the pupils where they like to go. Some pupils like the desert and others like going to the forest.

Ron: What is your favorite place?
Amit: That's a difficult question to answer. There are so many beautiful places to see, but I do know that I have the best job in the world!

Ron: Thanks for the interview, Amit.

Shoes for an Elephant

by Adam Sanders

Gilda, an elephant at the city zoo, had a sore* on her foot. The doctor took care of the sore. He knew it would take a month to get better. He was worried because if Gilda walked on the dirt, her foot would not get better. The doctor needed a way to protect* Gilda’s foot. Finally, he had an idea. He could protect her foot with a shoe!

The doctor called Mr. Smith, the shoemaker, and asked him to make a shoe for an elephant. Mr. Smith was very surprised. He had heard of shoes for horses, but not for elephants! Mr. Smith made a red shoe for the elephant in three days. Thanks to Mr. Smith, the sore got better quickly and Gilda can now walk on her foot.

Book of Records

The Biggest Shoe in the World

The biggest shoe in the world was made for an elephant named Gilda. It took the shoemaker three days to make it. The red shoe was 50 centimeters wide and 80 centimeters long! The laces* were two meters long. You can see the shoe at the Museum of Records.

THE BEACH KIDS
by Mark Halloway

Pollution is dangerous for sea life. For example, plastic bags may reach the sea and kill fish and other living creatures. People can cause pollution simply by leaving their rubbish* on the beach instead of throwing it away in the trash* bin. This makes me angry because I love the beach – swimming in the sea and relaxing on the sand. But there is no enjoyment when people don't care about keeping the beach clean.

I asked my friends what they thought we could do about all the garbage* on the beach. That's when we started the Beach Kids. Instead of complaining, we decided to do something about the problem. Every Friday morning during the summer vacation, we met to clean up the beach. We walked along the beach collecting trash and putting it into big trash bags. One morning we filled more than 40 bags!

Cleaning up the beach wasn't easy. Sometimes, we worked for over three hours. The sun was very hot and the bags were heavy. But it wasn't only hard work. After we finished cleaning up, we jumped into the sea and went for a swim. It felt good to have fun after all that hard work.

Many people thought our work was important and thanked us. Some people helped us pick up the trash. We even became famous in our town. We were interviewed on a local radio station and got a prize from the Mayor for helping keep the beach beautiful. Our families were proud of us.

Next summer, the Beach Kids plan to collect the trash again, but we hope that other teenagers at our school will join us. We hope that people won't leave trash on the beach and that when they see us working hard they'll remember to keep the beach clean. Then we'll be able to relax more and really enjoy the beach.
